Key considerations

- Insurance premiums will reduce your super balance. This is important to consider particularly if your account is not receiving regular contributions.
- If your account is not receiving contributions because perhaps you're taking a break from work, in-between jobs, working overseas or changing jobs, this may put you at risk of losing your insurance.
- To maintain your insurance cover, you'll need to have sufficient funds in your account to pay for your insurance premiums.
- The insurance cover that's right for you depends on your personal, family and financial circumstances, as well as your income and lifestyle. You can regularly review your insurance cover so that it continually meets your needs, especially as your circumstances may change.
- Insurance in your super can be a great way to protect you and your family in a tax effective manner. It's hassle free as your premiums are deducted from your super accounts.

How to keep your insurance cover

You don't have to lose your insurance cover because your account hasn't received a contribution or a rollover for over 16 months. Simply take one or both of the steps below:

Complete the Choose to Keep My Insurance Cover form and return it by:

- Mail
- Scan and email
- Photo and email

Or you can also make a contribution into your account on a regular basis to keep your account active.

What happens after you submit this form?

By returning this form, we'll know that you've chosen to keep your existing cover and it'll stay in place – until you let us know otherwise.

What if you don't do anything?

If your account hasn't received a contribution or a rollover in 16 months and if you haven't returned your form, we'll have to cancel your insurance. If your insurance is cancelled, your cover won't be available to you and you'll need to re-apply. As part of re-applying you may need to provide some further medical and employment information.
