What is the formula for my insurance cover?

Understanding how your insurance benefit is calculated will help you to determine if your current level of insurance meets your financial commitments and needs if, unfortunately, death or disability occurs.

Type of benefit	Your benefit	Your total coverage
Death benefit	e.g. member account + insured component	$ Automatic acceptance level e.g. $400,000
Total and permanent disablement benefit	e.g. member account + insured component	$ Automatic acceptance level e.g. $400,000
Salary continuance (total and temporary disablement) benefit	e.g. 75% x salary for up to 2 years	$ Maximum benefit of e.g. $25,000

What are my future income commitments?

Using the Budget planner at plum.com.au will give you an indication of your future income commitments. This is a good basis for understanding the income required should an unforeseeable event take place (death or disablement) which will help you to calculate how much insurance cover you may need.

How much will I need to leave for my family if I die?

In the event of your death your dependants will need to meet any upfront costs or expenses. Below is a list of a few such items to keep in mind to help determine if your insurance cover is adequate to meet these requirements.

Type of expense	Amount	Other comments
Funeral expenses	$
Mortgage repayments	$
Other debt repayments	$	e.g. credit cards, loans
Lump sum future income requirements	$
Emergency cash fund	$

Am I covered?

You might also like to think about any other types of insurance cover you have or might need. Below is a list of some of the more common types of insurance cover you could consider when reviewing your financial situation. You can use this list when speaking with a financial advisor, who can help to assess your expenses, types of cover you may need and the level of insurance required.
